the processes performing supervision tasks in the supervision block (2) of the supervision system and/or the objects monitored by them are registered in the supervision center (1) automatically as the processes in the supervision block (2) become ready for operation (column 4, lines 52-65; column 5, lines 1-52); and information about the processes in the supervision block (2) and/or about the services produced by them and/or about the objects monitored is saved in the supervision center (1) in conjunction with the registration (column 8, lines 1-47).

Regarding claim 2, Pattison discloses the method as defined in claim 1, characterized in that the supervision system is a telephone switching system (column 4, lines 23-36; fig. 1, item 10).

Regarding claim 3, Pattison discloses the method as defined in claim 1 or 2, characterized in that a supervision block (2) process performing supervision tasks comprises a communication interface (3) through which operational commands are received from the supervision center (1)(column 12, lines 35-59).

Regarding claim 4, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-3, characterized in that the state of a registered supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task is checked before an action request is sent to it (column 4, lines 63-67; column 5, lines 1-53).

Regarding claim 5, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-4, characterized in that the supervision center (1) comprises a user interface (4) via which the supervision center (1) and/or the supervision block (2) processes performing supervision tasks are controlled (fig. 1, items 12, and 30; column 4, lines 37-51).

Regarding claim 6, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-5, characterized in that the supervision center (1) comprises an interface (5) for receiving the registration data when supervision block (2) processes performing supervision tasks are registered in the supervision center (1) (column 4, lines 63-67; column 5, lines 1-65).

Regarding claim 7, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-6, characterized in that the result of the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task is sent to the supervision center (1) (column 7, lines 15-65).

Regarding claim 8, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-7, characterized in that the registrations of the supervision block (2) processes are stored in a supervision file in the supervision center (1) (column 6, lines 58-67).

Regarding claim 9, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-8, characterized in that the operation of the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task is verified in conjunction with the registration and an alarm is issued if the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task does not produce a response to a test command (column 26, lines 13-62; column 12, lines 35-60).

Regarding claim 10, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-9, characterized in that an alarm is issued if the response produced by the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task is inaccurate; and/or no supervision block (2) processes performing supervision tasks are registered at all; and/or the number of test cases in the supervision file is lower after a restart of the system (column 26, lines 13-62; column 28, lines 2-60).

Regarding claim 11, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-10, characterized in that the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task determines the address of the supervision center (1) via a name service (column 28, lines 2-60; note the call center traffic statistics are part of the logged sessions information).

Regarding claim 12, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-11, characterized in that the supervision file contains the address and/or identifier and/or test parameters and/or initial values of test parameters of the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task and/or other information (column 28, lines 2-60).

Regarding claim 13, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-12, characterized in that a registering supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task contains one or more objects of monitoring (column 11, lines 6-30).

Art Unit: 2143

Regarding claim 14, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-13, characterized in that a supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task that impairs the normal operation of the telephone switching center shall not register in the supervision center (1) (column 16, lines 17-67).

Regarding claim 15, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-14, characterized in that the supervision system comprises one or more supervision centers (1) in operation (column 4, lines 23-63).

Regarding claim 16, Pattison discloses the method as defined in any one of claims 1-15, characterized in that the supervision block (2) process performing a supervision task and/or the maintenance of the monitoring object of the process are/is discontinued and the respective entry is deleted from the supervision file (column 2, lines 42-65).

Regarding claim 17, Pattison discloses a System for automatically configuring supervision and performing supervision in a supervision system (fig. 1; column 4, lines 23-63) comprising:

a supervision center (1) (column 4, lines 23-63; note that the automatic scheduling and monitoring system is built around the environment item 10 of figure 1); a supervision block (2) which contains processes performing supervision tasks(fig. 1, item 34; fig. 5, item 164; column 4, lines 52-65), which method comprises the steps of:

monitoring and/or controlling via the supervision center (1) the supervision block (2) processes performing supervision tasks (column 4, lines 23-63; column 5, lines 27-52),
